description

Mysore Cottages, Albert Street, Ramsey

The pair of semidetached cottages are of single storey stone construction with slate roofs. Arched openings announce the entrance doorways and the roof is peaked above two of the stone mullioned windows is break the eaves line and to provide on the vertical wall extensions focus for plaques. Three bold chimney breasts rise from the ridge line along the length of the roof.

No internal inspections were made.

The repair of the cottages appears to be in good order.

recommendation

The pair of buildings have certain historic significance being built by the sister of the Manx Governor of Mysore (India) who died on his voyage back to retire to his island home. Furthermore there is an architectural quality to the buildings quite distinct from usual Manx alms houses of the mid 19th century. It is suggested that they be listed for preservation.
