What can we do for you?

Our feedback survey showed us that lots of you want to access library resources but aren't always sure what we provide or how to find it.

We've put together this list to try and help you track down the service you need.

Service	What is it?	How to access
1-1 Support	A 1-1 or small group session with a staff member on topics including literature searching, using online resources, using our referencing software, search strategy planning, and other library-related topics.	Email librarykeylldarree@gov.im ring 642993, or pop in.
Online Catalogue	An online catalogue of all our physical resources and most of our eBooks	kdonline.gov.im
Discovery Service	An online catalogue of all of our physical and eResources including individual journal articles.	tinyurl.com/KDdiscovery
Inter-Library Loans	If we don't have the article/book you need you can request it from us and we'll usually be able to get it from another library in the UK free of charge. See the link for more info.	tinyurl.com/KDrequest
OpenAthens Logins	A username and password which allows eligible library members (employed by Manx Care, DHSC, and Hospice) access to ejournals, books, and databases paid for by Keyll Darree Library.	tinyurl.com/KeyllDarreeAthens
Recommend a Resource	Recommend a resource to add to stock (no recommendations with ongoing cost implications please)	tinyurl.com/KDRecommend
How to Guides	A series of instructional guides and videos showing how to use a variety of library resources and searching tools.	tinyurl.com/KDHowToGuides
Supported Searches	Systematic searches, knowledge summaries, and other literature searches can be done on your behalf (unless it's for an assignment)	Email librarykeylldarree@gov.im ring 642993, or pop in.

A Day in the Life... Mand Marsay – Library and Information Service Manager

Having worked in the library for 18 years I can categorically state that no day is ever the same. You can try and make firm plans for the day but there is always the element of surprise!

First task of the day – Checking emails unless there are library users who need assistance, then it's prep for and facilitating our quarterly staff meeting. We see each other every day, but these are a strategic meeting for our annual action/implementation plan which is submitted to Heath Education England and used to benchmark us against other UK health libraries. There's 6 HEE outcomes and also Manx Care outcomes to consider. We plan projects to meet our goals and keep track with the traffic light system (thankfully we're mostly green so far!)

We also discuss updating our policies and procedures – there's one for nearly every job in the library. This time it's updating the journal move around.

After the meeting I checked Axapta – during journal renewals it's especially important that we keep an eye on spending, journal publishers are large companies and regularly forget to acknowledge receipt of payment or attribute them to our accounts.

I spoke with GTS as there are ongoing issues with our library management system, but they now know it's the supplier, not on our end (phew!)

A library user was struggling with a search strategy so I helped them create a mind map, pull out key words, and think about where to search.

Today was also a UK Health Library Managers meeting. The main topics of discussion were the new North of England library catalogue and CILIP's* webinar on AI in healthcare and the impact of this on health libraries teaching sessions.

The Manx Lieutenant Governor came to Keyll Darree to have a tour and meet the staff that deliver education and training to Manx Care. We discussed the history of the library and the services and resources we have to aid all health and social care professionals, students, and educators on the island.

At the end of the day I got pulled in to help with some 'organisational consultancy' for a large resource cupboard - I recommended clear labelling, heavy things near the door, and a map to help locate items.

*CILIP: Chartered Institute of Library and Information Professionals, or UK's library and information association

Free resources? Yes please!

Oxford Open Access: OUP publishes around 60 open access books each year.

Pulse Reference is based on the best-selling book Symptom Sorter.

It analyses a multitude of symptoms commonly seen in primary care and for each presents differentials, distinguishing features, possible investigations and key points. Its perspective is very much grass roots primary care and informed by the latest evidence and guidance where possible or appropriate

And while we're talking about saving you money...

Last year you borrowed 1,463 physical resources from us, which saved you:

£39,523.69

That's an average of:

- 4 loans every day
- £27 per book!

Library Feedback

The results of our User Needs Analysis survey are in - here's some of the feedback and what we're doing about it!

You said:

Desks are the wrong height for the chairs for some people

You would like comfortable floor seating

You struggled with people talking to you while you were trying to research

You wanted duplicates of popular books

It's too cold!

We did:

Moveable, adjustable desks around the library and one stationary electric adjustable desk.

We have purchased two large floor cushions, with washable covers. We have placed them in the wellbeing corner.

We have created new "Do not disturb" signs for the library - use one to show others you do not wish to be disturbed.

We're reviewing loan and reservation history to assess demand.

We got new oil-filled radiators for the library - they're on wheels so you can move them to you.

Name! That! eResource!

Every year users ask us for more journals/resources, but we don't know which ones you want us to consider! We had provided this survey with our results for the last two years, but sadly received no replies. Please let us know what you want to see if you feel something is lacking: www.surveymonkey.com/r/KDResources

Want to run a journal or book club?

We received multiple comments from users who wanted to set up a journal or book club - get in touch! We're very happy to provide the space for you and can help source articles if needed. Email librarykeylldarree@gov.im to discuss!

Do you have anything to add?

Email librarykeylldarree@gov.im or ring 642993

Tell us what you think about the new motorised height-adjustable standing/sitting desk

Responding to our user survey, KD Library acquired a few pieces of furniture that allow ergonomic flexibility to promote wellness, increase productivity, or relieve pain and fatigue. Along the wall between the reference section and wellbeing nook, you'll find the new motorised height-adjustable desk.

The intuitive control panel let you raise (^) and lower (v) the desktop. You may also press the corresponding pictograms for pre-programmed standing or sitting positions.

Your feedback matters.
Please tell us what you think!

Access Card Not Working?

KD Library is open 24/7, but you'll need an access card to get in. Your Noble's Hospital access card should work. However, there is a known problem that may affect some (newer) cards. Please call the Porters' Office at 650096 and someone will come and open the door(s) for you.

Did you know we have a range of educational games?

Game-based learning is the perfect way to learn, raise awareness, and change behaviour. The games we have in stock are fun, but have a serious purpose and clear learning outcomes.

Want to borrow some? Check out the game shelf between the quiet room and research corner boards in KD Library.

Demystifying Athens

What it is, and what it isn't

What is Athens?

'Athens' refers to OpenAthens, a username and password that allows Manx Care, DHSC, and Hospice staff (who are library members) to access ejournals, books, and databases paid for by Keyll Darree Library

Do I get access to everything?

No.

Athens is a password and login which identifies you as being part of our organisation, Manx Care.

Once you log in you're able to access the content we pay for which includes CINAHL plus, Medline plus and individual titles. The most common way that libraries subscribe is via package – we get a certain database (like the CINAHL plus package from EBSCO), or a collection of resources (e.g. the Oxford specialist handbooks).

We also subscribe to some individual journals as we do a cost benefit assessment to see if packages or individual subscriptions offer better value for our users.

How much do they cost?

In short, lots.

Our most expensive annual subscription with online access is the Journal of Advanced Nursing which costs £1,923.45.

Cost is one of the reasons we can't get you everything we'd like to, we have to consider ongoing costs when we subscribe to journals (+7% per year is industry average).

Databases cost up to £18,000 per year so we have to choose our packages carefully too.

Staff Updates

Stacey is attending LILAC – the Information Literacy Conference, an event for ‘...library and information professionals who teach information literacy skills, are interested in digital literacies, and who want to improve the information seeking and evaluation skills of all library users.’ She’s particularly looking forward to the sessions on AI to find out more about how other staff are using it and the pitfalls they have found (Newcastle University Library’s talk in particular looks great!) Interested? Keep an eye on our social media as she’ll likely be Tweeting throughout.

Speaking of AI – we’ve been attending a variety of training sessions and meetings regarding the use of AI in libraries, the information sector, and education. This was even the topic of the library staff journal club this quarter – it was interesting to speak with other library staff on the island and hear if/how they were using AI and how they would like to (if at all!) We decided that most of us are currently reluctant due to hallucinations and error rates.

We have also had discussions with other staff to find out more about regulations, plans, and proposals to do with AI.

We have also been in discussion about a possible new resource! Hopefully we’ll have an exciting announcement for the next newsletter!

Staff Recommendations

We don't stock these titles, but we enjoyed reading them! You may be able to find them at your local public library.

Stacey — “The poems in this book were arranged on the floor in front of the altar - poems laid out before God in an empty church.”

This book contains poems I've read over and over again, ones that I think about in quiet moments, in hard moments. There's poems that I tell people about, that I send people I love because I know they will love them too, poems like This Body, Jesus at the Gay Bar, Christianity for Heathens, Anatomy of an Ending. They're special, they're meaningful, they're based in theology (and double checked by a reverend for any accidental heresy!)

It's a beautiful exploration of religion, of the pandemic, of a journey into the former during the latter.

Mand — Slough House is the outpost where disgraced spies are banished to see out the rest of their derailed careers. Known as the 'slow horses' these misfits have committed crimes of drugs and drunkenness, lechery and failure, politics and betrayal while on duty.

In this drab and mildewed office these highly trained spies don't run ops, they push paper. Not one of them joined the Intelligence Service to be a slow horse and the one thing they have in common is they want to be back in the action.

When a boy is kidnapped and held hostage, his beheading is scheduled for live broadcast on the net. And whatever the instructions of their masters at the Intelligence Service headquarters, the slow horses aren't going to just sit quiet and watch.

Alan — Many things we take for granted today are the results of the right people doing the right thing at the right time. But their successes are attributable to foresight, hard work, and often, sheer luck. In its early days, the author worked at Keyhole, a mapping technology start-up nobody had even heard of, which eventually became Google Maps. He wrote this memoir of an emerging technology that, at the time, was thought of as 'crazy'. Any wrong turns that the company made could mean ending up in a technological or legal dead-end, and even bankruptcy.

That red arrow on the map and the text-to-speech voice prompt 'You have arrived. The destination is on your right' were 20 years in the making. The book inspires us to believe in a vision, take risks, and work to make it happen. As AI and imagining technologies develop by leaps and bounds, the lessons from the past also offers a taste of what is to come.

Stacey's Super Simple Sponge

This can either be one large cake or fairy cakes - and you just dump everything in one bowl!

Equipment

- 2 cake tins (I use 8" round, but you can eyeball different options if you feel confident doing so) lined/greased/however you want them (I'm not the boss of you)
- OR 2 x 12 hole fairy cake tins lined with cases (depending on how much mix it might not take up both, but it's definitely more than 12!)
- Mixing bowl
- Stand mixer/hand mixers/your own brute strength

Ingredients

- 8 oz room temperature butter (or stork/dairy free baking block etc.)
- 8 oz sugar
- 10 oz self raising flour
- 1 tsp baking powder
- 2 eggs, 1 egg yolk
- 3.5 floz milk (dairy free works fine, I've tested with oat and soya)

Method

- Preheat the oven to 170°C fan oven, 190°C non-fan (although trust your judgement on this one, you know your oven best!)
- Lob all of it in the bowl (you can also add vanilla/almond/coffee extract etc. too)
- Mix! (Until there's a smooth batter, I usually give it a few minutes)
- Divide between your cake tins/cake cases, I usually do 1.5tbsps in a case.
- Bake for about 25 minutes for a big cake, 20 for fairy cakes. I usually check the cake after 20 minutes and the cupcakes after 15.

Tip from my Gran who, according to my (definitely not in any way biased) Granda, made the best cakes ever, listen to your cakes, if it's hissing/crackling it's still baking. You can also give it a prod and see if it springs back, but the risk of burning your ear adds a fun element of danger.

- Once they're baked, leave them to cool in the tins
- Decorate/ice however you like!

Options include: Slap some of your favourite jam in the middle and sprinkle icing sugar on top; whip cream and put it in the middle and stick strawberries around the edge so it looks like they're holding the top layer up (magic!) then add chocolate ganache on top; all of the buttercream; lotus biscoff spread in the middle and mixed into buttercream; Scoop out a teaspoon full of the top of a cupcake, add a spoon of jam in the gap, halve the spoonful you removed, and put it on top like a butterfly. Basically, the sky's your limit!
