NOTICES

The RTLC office has received many queries regarding trailers and whether they need to be registered or not. Hopefully the following guidance will help:

Any vehicle constructed or adapted to carry goods that has a maximum gross vehicle weight (i.e. the weight of the vehicle plus the driver and any load) that exceeds 3,500 kg must be operated under an Operator Registration or Operator Licence as per the Road Transport Regulations 2018. All such vehicles will require an operator disc.

Similarly, any trailer constructed or adapted to carry goods that has a maximum gross vehicle weight (i.e. the weight of the trailer plus any goods carried) that exceeds 3,500 kg must also be registered and will require an operator disc.

Any vehicle and trailer combination that has a combined maximum gross weight that exceeds 3,500 kg will also require the operator to have either a Registration or Licence.

For example, a pickup truck with a gross vehicle weight of 3,200 kg may be operated without an Operator’s Licence or Registration. However, if that vehicle is towing a trailer and the gross vehicle weight of the combination exceeds 3,500 kg an Operator’s Licence or Registration will be required authorising 1 goods vehicle and 1 trailer. While you will need authorisation for both vehicles in this example, you will only require an operator disc for the goods vehicle.

Further guidance documents in the form of a “Guide to Operator Licensing” and a “Goods Vehicles Maintenance Guide” are available on the RTLC website; www.gov.im/rtl along with the latest versions of the application forms.
