The code of Conduct and Discipline applies to all staff employed to work in the Isle of Man Prison and who come under the line management of the prison Governor.

Any person whose employment involves working in the prison will be expected to conform to the standards and values set out in the Code of Conduct and Discipline. Persons whose actions or Behaviour is in breach of the Code may be liable to disciplinary action under the Public Services Commission Civil Service Regulations 2015 and/or the code of Conduct and Discipline for their employing Department or Agency. The Prison Governor reserves the right to exclude any person from the prison (Paragraph 66 (3) Custody Rules 2001), given reasonable suspicion or evidence that the standards of conduct defined in this Code have been breached. A person so excluded will be given written confirmation of the reasons for their exclusion.
Isle of Man Prison Service

Code of Conduct and Discipline for Prison Staff

SECTION 1: INTRODUCTION; PRINCIPLES

1.1 All members of the Isle of Man Prison Service are expected to observe certain standards of conduct. A positive commitment on the part of members of the Isle of Man Prison Service to those standards of conduct and strict adherence to them are fundamental to the successful performance of the duties and responsibilities of the Service. Any failure to meet them undermines the work of the Service.

1.2 The commitment to upholding standards of conduct must, therefore, be underpinned by disciplinary procedures which provide a fair and open method of dealing with alleged misconduct. This Code sets out the standards of conduct expected of staff. The investigation of any act of alleged misconduct and the arrangements for disciplinary hearings, penalties and appeals will be in accordance with the Public Services Commission Civil Service Regulations 2015. The primary objective is to ensure that standards are maintained and to encourage improvement in individual conduct and not primarily to impose penalties on the employee.

1.3 The Isle of Man Prison Service Code of Conduct and Discipline supplements the Code of Conduct for civil servants working in the Isle of Man Public Service and the general provisions covered in the Public Services Commission Civil Service Regulations 2015. The Isle of Man Prison Service Conduct provides additional definitions of the standards of Conduct required from those employed to work in the prison environment.
SECTION 2: PROFESSIONAL STANDARDS STATEMENT

Purpose

2.1 Prison Service staff are expected to meet high standards of professional and personal conduct. All staff are personally responsible for their conduct. Misconduct will not be tolerated and failure to comply with these standards can lead to action which may result in dismissal from the Service.

This document therefore identifies and clarifies the key standards of professional and personal conduct expected of all staff.

It should be noted that this is not an exhaustive list. Any conduct that could undermine the work of the Service is not acceptable.

Prison Service Values

2.2 The Prison Service Values underpin the work of the Service and all staff are expected to act in accordance with them. Staff must therefore:

- Deal fairly, openly and humanely with prisoners and all others who come into contact with them.
- Encourage prisoners to address offending Behaviour and respect others.
- Value and support each other’s contribution.
- Promote equality of opportunity for all and combat discrimination wherever it occurs.
- Work constructively with criminal justice agencies and other organisations.
- Obtain best value from the resources available.

The following sets out the professional and personal standards of conduct expected of all staff.

Staff must carry out their duties loyally, conscientiously, honestly and with integrity. They must take responsibility and be accountable for their actions.

Staff must be courteous, reasonable and fair in their dealings with all prisoners, colleagues and members of the public. They must treat people with decency and respect.

All staff must comply with Service policies and procedures. Managers must ensure that standards of Behaviour and conduct are maintained.

Corrupt behaviour is not acceptable. Staff must not solicit or accept any advantage, reward or preferential treatment for themselves or others by abusing or misusing their power and authority.

2.7 Conflicts of Interest

Staff must not have private interests that interfere or could interfere with the proper discharge of their duties. This includes financial and business interests but also any personal relationships which could compromise or be perceived to compromise them in the discharge of their duties. Staff must bring any potential conflicts of interests to the attention of a Senior Manager. The Governor will maintain a register of conflicts of interest for prison staff.

Staff must conduct their financial affairs in a proper and responsible way. If difficulties occur they must inform their manager. The Staff Welfare Service is available to staff for advice and support.

2.11 Conduct that affects the performance of duties
Staff must not take any action on or off duty that could affect, cast doubt on or conflict with the performance of their official duties. For example, outside activities or membership of organisations which promote racism.

2.12 Discredit on the Service

Staff must not bring discredit on the Prison Service through their conduct on or off duty.
SECTION 3: BEHAVIOUR WHICH MAY ATTRACT DISCIPLINARY ACTION

3.1 The main areas of potential misconduct in the Prison Service are set out below. Any Behaviour which is not specifically mentioned below but which is in clear breach of established standards of conduct expected of members of the Prison Service may also lead to disciplinary action. However not every action listed below will lead to disciplinary action if the action is of a relatively trivial nature or the matter is capable of resolution. The Governor, Deputy Governor or Chief Executive, Department of Home Affairs will have regard to all the circumstances of the case in deciding whether formal disciplinary action is appropriate.

3.2 Relations with others at the workplace

- fighting or assault on any other person;
- use of unnecessary force on a prisoner;
- deliberate provocation of a prisoner;
- offensive language or aggressive Behaviour towards prisoners, colleagues or members of the public;
- racial or sexual harassment or discrimination towards prisoners, colleagues or members of the public, any racially motivated offence, or failure to deal appropriately with any racist, sexist or discriminatory Behaviour.
- Membership of racist organisations and/or involvement in the activities of any such organisation.

- failure to obtain proper authority for actions or relationships in connection with prisoners or ex-prisoners or the friends or relatives of prisoners or ex-prisoners, which could otherwise be open to abuse, misinterpretation or exploitation on either side.

3.4 Performance of duties

- action or negligence likely to endanger the security of an establishment, including contributing to the escape of a prisoner;
- breaches of security;
• action or negligence in the course of duty which causes, or which could have caused, or contributes to loss, damage or injury to the Prison Service or individuals;

• failure to report misconduct by other members of staff. (this should generally apply only to wilfull concealment of acts of serious misconduct)
3.9 Gross Misconduct

"Gross misconduct" is defined as misconduct that is so serious as to make any further relationship and trust between the Prison Service and the member of staff concerned impossible and staff can therefore be dismissed for a first offence of gross misconduct. Serious cases of any of the types of misconduct listed above may amount to gross misconduct in this sense, e.g. reporting for duty seriously incapacitated by alcohol. A test of reasonableness must be applied in deciding whether a case constitutes gross misconduct and each case will be treated on its merits. Some examples of gross misconduct are:
