1. Prohibitions and requirements imposed by the Regulations

These Regulations impose financial, trade and immigration sanctions for the purpose of promoting the abandonment by Iran of nuclear weapons programmes, and to restrict the ability of Iran to develop nuclear weapons and nuclear weapons delivery systems.

In order to achieve their stated purposes, the Regulations impose a number of prohibitions and requirements in order to enforce these, the Regulations establish penalties and offences. These are set out in detail in the Annex.

The sanctions imposed by these Regulations apply within the territory of the Isle of Man (IOM) and in relation to the conducts of all Island persons wherever they are in the world. Island person includes -

- (a) a British citizen, a British overseas territories citizen, a British National (Overseas) or a British overseas citizen who is resident in the Isle of Man;
- (b) a person who under the British Nationality Act 1981 (of Parliament)¹ is a British subject who is resident in the Isle of Man;
- (c) a British protected person within the meaning of that Act who is resident in the Isle of Man; or
- (d) a body incorporated under the law of the Isle of Man;

It is prohibited to intentionally participate in any activities if you know that the object or effect of them is to directly or indirectly circumvent the prohibitions imposed by these Regulations or to enable or facilitate the contravention of those prohibitions.

If you are unclear about any aspects of the Regulations, in particular about whether action you are considering taking could contravene these Regulations, you are advised to seek independent legal advice.

Prohibitions and requirements for the financial and immigration sanctions contained in these Regulations are set out below.

1.1 Designation of persons

Where the UK Secretary of State has designated a person, that designation also has effect in the Isle of Man from the same time, and any variation or revocation of the designation will also have effect in the Island. The reasons for designation include, for example, being involved in a relevant nuclear activity.

When these Regulations are in force a list of those persons designated under these Regulations and details of the sanctions in respect of which they have been designated, will be on GOV.UK

1.2 Financial sanctions

Asset Freeze

The Regulations impose financial sanctions through a targeted asset freeze on designated persons. This involves the freezing of funds and economic resources (non-monetary assets, such as property or vehicles) of designated persons and ensuring that funds and economic resources are not made available to or for the benefit of designated persons or entities, either directly or indirectly.

More information on asset freezes can be found in the Financial Sanctions - General Guidance.

1.3 Trade Sanctions

The Regulations impose trade prohibitions relating to:

- restricted goods and technology, specifically:
 - military goods and military technology (as specified in Schedule 2 to the Export Control Order 2008);
 - anything which falls within Chapter 93 of the Goods Classification Table, other than military goods;
 - missile-related goods and technology (as specified in United Nations Security Council Document S/2015/546);
 - nuclear-related goods and technology (meaning anything specified in a relevant International Atomic Energy Agency list);
 - graphite and relevant metals (as defined in regulation 34 of the Regulations);
 - relevant enterprise resource planning software (as defined in regulation 34 of the Regulations); and
 - other restricted goods and other restricted technology (both as defined in regulation 34 of the Regulations);
- commercial arrangements relating to uranium mining and certain restricted goods and technology;
- the provision of certain services in relation to certain ships and aircraft.

There are circumstances (set out in the relevant lists of controlled items) in which certain items are not controlled, for example when body armour or a helmet is accompanying a person for that person's own protection. Please check the relevant lists as applicable.

Further detail on these trade prohibitions, including key terminology used, is explained below. Please have regard to the relevant legislation which contains full definitions of terms used here.

Export of goods

The concept of "export" is set out in customs legislation, but is further detailed in the Regulations, which clarifies that "export" means export from the Isle of Man, but does not capture where goods are removed to the United Kingdom from the Isle of Man.

The export prohibition in the Regulations covers export to Iran as well as exports that are for use in Iran. This means that, even if the immediate destination is not Iran, the prohibition may still apply. Exporters should check the ultimate end use of goods and may apply for a licence or contact the Export Control Joint Unit (ECJU) if you know or think the items may be used in Iran.

For general guidance on export controls and trade sanctions, visit the Export Control Joint Unit website (the Isle of Man imposes the same export and trade controls as the UK).

Supply and delivery of goods

Supply and delivery prohibitions in the Regulations prohibit a person from directly or indirectly supplying or delivering restricted goods from a third country to a place in Iran. Regulation 22 specifies that for the purposes of this regulation a third country is a country that is not the UK, Isle of Man or Iran.

The supply and delivery prohibitions also prohibit the direct or indirect supply and delivery of certain goods to a third country from a place in Iran, as set out in regulation 29. Regulation 29 defines "third country" as a country that is not the United Kingdom, the Isle of Man or Iran.

Acquiring or making goods and technology available

Prohibitions in the Regulations on making restricted goods or technology available (e.g. through a sale) include directly or indirectly making them available for use in Iran or to a "person connected with Iran". Regulation 34 sets out when a person is to be regarded as "connected with" Iran (and this applies where the term is used in other trade prohibitions in this Part of the Regulations).

The Regulations prohibit the direct or indirect acquisition of relevant goods and technology which are located in Iran, as set out in regulation 30.

Transfer of technology

Prohibitions in the Regulations on the transfer of restricted technology include transfer to a place in Iran or a person "connected with" Iran.

The term 'transfer' means a transfer by any means (or combination of means), including oral communication and that transfer of goods on which the technology is recorded or from which it can be derived, other than the export of such goods.

Where military technology is contained within a good, it would be classified as a military good under the accompanying goods-related provisions. This includes information contained on USB memory devices, laptops, tablets and the like.

The transfer of certain technology from a place in Iran to persons outside the United Kingdom/Isle of Man is also prohibited. This provision is set out in regulation 31.

Technical assistance

The term technical assistance in relation to restricted goods or technology is defined in regulation 34, which states that it means:

- technical support relating to the repair, development, production, assembly, testing, use or maintenance of the goods or technology, or

- any other technical service relating to the goods or technology.

Prohibitions apply where the technical assistance relates to certain specified goods or technology.

The prohibitions apply to the direct or indirect provision of such technical assistance (1) to persons connected with Iran or (2) for use in Iran.

This means that, even if the person to whom you are providing the relevant technical assistance, is not in or "connected with Iran" the prohibition may still apply if the goods or technology to which the technical assistance relates are for use in Iran. Therefore, if you are intending to provide technical assistance you should check whether the goods or technology may be used in Iran and may apply for a licence or contact ECJU if so.

Financial services and funds related to goods and technology

'Financial services' refer to any services of a financial nature in many different forms including insurance and banking. Financial services include payment and money transmission services. The full definition of 'financial services' can be found in Section 61 of the Sanctions Act.

'Funds' means financial assets and benefits of every kind, including cash, securities and interest. The full definition of 'funds' can be found in Section 60 of the Sanctions Act.

Prohibitions in the Regulations on the provision of financial services and funds prohibit the direct or indirect provision of financial services, and the direct or indirect making available of funds to persons connected with Iran in pursuance of or in connection with an arrangement set out in Regulation 26(1). This captures arrangements related to the goods or technology controlled by the Regulations, for example an arrangement for the export of goods to or for use in Iran, or direct or indirect supply or delivery of goods.

These prohibitions also prohibit the direct or indirect provision of financial services or funds to anyone, where this is in pursuance of or in connection with specific arrangements as set out in regulation 26(3). This captures arrangements the object or effect of which falls into one of the prohibitions, for example an arrangement for the export of goods to or for use in Iran.

Brokering services

The definition of 'brokering services' is set out in regulation 27, which states that it means any service to secure, or otherwise in relation to, an arrangement, including (but not limited to):

- the selection or introduction of persons as parties or potential parties to the arrangement;
- the negotiation of the arrangement;
- the facilitation of anything that enables the arrangement to be entered into; and
- the provision of any assistance that in any way promotes or facilitates the arrangement.

The Regulations prohibit the direct or indirect provision of brokering services where they relate to specific arrangements. Those arrangements are also set out in regulation 27.

Import of goods

The concept of 'import' is set out in customs legislation, which clarifies in particular that goods removed from the UK to the Isle of Man are not to be regarded as imported.

The import prohibition in regulation 28 covers imports that are consigned from Iran and goods that originated in Iran. This means that even if the immediate place the goods were shipped from was not Iran, the prohibition may still apply. Therefore, importers should check the original place goods were consigned from and apply for a licence or contact DIT's Import Licensing Branch if they think the items may have originated in or have been consigned from Iran.

A sanctions licence is not required for imports of non-military goods covered by the Regulations from an EU Member State which originate in or are consigned from Iran. You will however have to comply with any licensing requirements that apply in the relevant EU Member State for the original import into the customs territory of the EU. You will also have to comply with any other licensing requirements under IOM/UK import control legislation as applicable.

Other trade restrictions

Certain other arrangements and services are prohibited in the Regulations. These include arrangements relating to uranium mining and certain restricted goods and technology, and the provision of certain services in relation to certain ships and aircraft.

Provisions on uranium mining and certain restricted goods and technology are set out in regulation 32 and prohibit the entering into of arrangements which have the object or effect of enabling a person connected with Iran (or a person acting on their behalf or at their direction) to participate in or increase their participation in certain specified commercial activities involving uranium mining or certain restricted goods and technology, set out in the Regulation.

Provision on services in relation to certain ships and aircraft are set out in regulation 33 and prohibit the provision of bunkering or ship supply services to a ship, and engineering or maintenance services to a cargo aircraft, owned or controlled, directly or indirectly, by a person connected with Iran, where the ship or aircraft is carrying relevant restricted items.

1.4 Immigration Sanctions

The effect of the Regulations is to impose a travel ban on persons who are designated by the UK Secretary of State. Such persons are excluded persons for the purposes of section 8B of the Immigration Act 1971 (as that Act has effect in the Isle of Man).

This means that those individuals will be refused leave to enter or remain in the UK/IOM. Any applications they make for a visa to travel to the UK/IOM, including for transit purposes, will be refused. A foreign national who is subject to a travel ban under the Regulations, and is currently in the UK/IOM, will have their permission to stay in the UK/IOM cancelled and steps will be taken to remove them.

If you are the subject of an immigration sanction and try to travel to the UK/IOM, carriers are required to deny you boarding.

1.5 Information and Record Keeping

Part 7 of the Regulations places obligations on relevant firms (the definition of which is set out in the Regulations) to report information to the Treasury about known or suspected designated persons or about persons who may have committed an offence under specified provisions of the Regulations. The Treasury has designated the Financial Intelligence Unit (FIU) as the body to whom reports should be made, via THEMIS.

It also grants powers to the Treasury to request information from, amongst others, a designated person, including powers to request the production of documents. It also establishes offences for failing to comply with these requests (including providing false information in respect of licences).

Part 7 also establishes information powers and record-keeping responsibilities in relation to the trade sanctions contained in the Regulations. It provides for offences for failing to comply with any of those requirements or intentionally obstructing an official in the exercise of those powers.

If you have obligations or responsibilities under Part 7 of these Regulations, it is important that you familiarise yourself with them. If you are unclear of your obligations or responsibilities, you are advised to seek independent legal advice.

2. How will these sanctions measures be enforced?

The Regulations make it a criminal offence to contravene the financial sanctions, as well as to enable or facilitate a contravention of, or to circumvent, any of the prohibitions in these Regulations. They also set out the penalties that apply to such offences.

In addition to the below, further details on offences and penalties can be found in the Annex.

2.1 Financial Sanctions

Breaches of financial sanctions are a serious criminal offence. Any breach of the main financial prohibitions in the Regulations carries a maximum sentence of 7 years' imprisonment or a fine (or both).

Committing an offence under regulations 46(6) or 50 (information offences in connection with financial sanctions under the Regulations) carries a maximum sentence of 6 months' imprisonment or a fine (or both).

The Treasury is responsible for monitoring compliance with financial sanctions and investigating suspected breaches.

The Treasury works with other parts of government, supervisory bodies and regulators to consider all cases reported to it, sharing relevant information accordingly.

If you find out that a person or organisation you are dealing with is subject to the financial sanctions detailed in the Regulations, you must immediately:

- stop dealing with them
- freeze any assets you're holding for them
- inform the FIU as soon as possible.

More detailed information on the Treasury's approach to compliance and enforcement can be found in the Financial Sanctions - General Guidance.

2.2 Trade Sanctions

Any breach of the prohibitions relating to the trade sanctions contained in the Regulations is triable either way and carries a maximum sentence of 10 years' imprisonment or a fine (or both). Any breach of trade licensing provisions is also triable either way and carries a maximum sentence on indictment of 2 years imprisonment or a fine (or both).

The Treasury is responsible for enforcing the trade prohibitions and investigating suspected offences.

If you discover that you have breached any of the trade prohibitions, you should report the irregularity to the FIU as soon as possible.

You should provide:

- details of the export or transaction, including dates
- any relevant documents, such as export documentation and commercial invoices
- details of how the breach was discovered, why it occurred and what steps you have put in place to ensure it doesn't happen again.

3. Are there circumstances when I can get an authorisation or licence for a sanctioned activity?

Licensing and exception provisions are contained in Part 6 of the Regulations.

3.1 Exceptions

The Regulations set out the exceptions to some of the sanctions prohibitions which apply within certain defined circumstances. An exception applies automatically, and does not require you to obtain a licence.

The Regulations establish exceptions relating to financial sanctions including for the crediting of a frozen account by a relevant institution (any such interest or other earnings will be frozen in accordance with the relevant legislation underpinning the asset freeze). An exception also exists from the prohibition on making funds available to a designated person, when funds are transferred to a frozen account in discharge (or partial discharge) of an obligation which arose before the recipient became a designated person.

Regulation 37A establishes an exception to regulations 12 to 17 and Chapters 1 to 3 of Part 5 (Trade) which provides that prohibitions are not contravened if conduct is authorised by a licence which is issued under the law of the Channel Islands or any British Overseas Territory for the purpose of disapplying a prohibition in that jurisdiction which corresponds to the relevant prohibition.

There is an exception to regulations 12 to 17 in respect of "relevant activity" (being any activity which would otherwise be prohibited by regulations 12 to 17) which is necessary to ensure the timely delivery of humanitarian assistance or to support other activities that support basic human needs by:

(a) the United Nations, including its—

- (i) programmes and funds,
- (ii) other entities and bodies, and
- (iii) specialised agencies and related organisations,

- (b) international organisations,
- (c) humanitarian organisations having observer status with the United Nations General Assembly and members of those humanitarian organisations,
- (d) bilaterally or multilaterally funded non-governmental organisations participating in the United Nations Humanitarian Response Plans, Refugee Response Plans, other United Nations appeals, or humanitarian clusters coordinated by the United Nations Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs,
- (e) any grantee, subsidiary, or implementing partner of any organisation falling within subparagraphs (a) to (d) while and to the extent that they are acting in those capacities (reference in the regulations to an organisation (or entity) includes reference to the employees of that organisation while acting in that capacity),
- (f) any other persons authorised by the Committee for the purposes of resolution 2664.

This exception means the prohibitions of the asset freeze are not contravened by a person carrying out relevant activity which is necessary to ensure the timely delivery of humanitarian assistance or to carry out other activities that support basic human needs. This includes the provision, processing and payment of funds, other financial assets or economic resources, and the provision of goods and services necessary to ensure the timely delivery of such assistance or to support such activities.

The prohibitions of the asset freeze are not contravened where the person undertaking the relevant activity believes carrying it out is necessary to ensure the timely delivery of humanitarian assistance, or to carry out other activities that support basic human needs and there is no reasonable cause for them to suspect otherwise.

The Regulations also include an exception in relation to any prohibition or requirement imposed by these Regulations for acts done for the purposes of national security or prevention of serious crime.

The Regulations also include an exception for the provision of bunkering or ship supply services, or engineering or maintenance services in relation to cargo aircraft, where failing to do so would endanger the lives of persons on board that ship or aircraft.

These exceptions do not apply to all prohibitions. If you are unsure whether an exception applies in your circumstances, you are advised to seek independent legal advice.

3.2. Licensing for financial sanctions

Where a person has been designated for the purposes of financial sanctions and had their assets frozen, the designated person or a representative may apply for a licence from the Treasury in order to be able to utilise their funds or economic resources (non-monetary assets, such as property or vehicles). Schedule 2 to the Regulations sets out the purposes pursuant to which, or for which activities, the Treasury may grant an individual licence. In summary these are:

- basic needs
- reasonable legal fees or reasonable expenses associated with the provision of legal services
- reasonable fees for the routine holding or maintenance of frozen funds and economic resources

- extraordinary expenses
- pre-existing judicial decisions etc.
- prior obligations
- activities related to the Joint Comprehensive Plan of Action
- humanitarian assistance activities (non-UN designated persons only)
- diplomatic missions
- extraordinary situations

Further information can be found in the Financial Sanctions - General Guidance

3.3 Licensing for trade sanctions

Licenses may also be issued for certain trade activities that would otherwise be prohibited by the Regulations.

The Treasury is responsible for administering the licensing provisions for all trade sanctions. In exercising these powers, the Treasury seeks and considers advice from other Isle of Man and United Kingdom government departments.

In making decisions on whether to grant a licence to permit something which would otherwise be prohibited under Part 6 of the Regulations, the Treasury will consider each application on a case-by-case basis to determine whether granting a licence would be consistent with the stated purposes of the sanctions regime and any UN or other relevant international law obligations.

For some prohibitions there are specific activities which the UK's Department for International Trade considers are likely to be consistent with the aims of the sanctions. These can be found here (section 3.3). If you think that your proposed activity falls within one of these specific descriptions you should make this clear and explain why you believe this to be the case in your application for a licence.

You should not assume that a licence will be granted or engage in any activities prohibited by the trade sanctions until your licence has been granted.

When you export goods, you may need to submit an electronic export declaration via the National Export System (NES), part of the Customs Handling of Import and Export Freight (CHIEF) system. Guidance is available on how to make an export declaration

3.4 Overlap with strategic export licensing

Military goods and military technology

Please note that the export of and trade in military goods and military technology are also controlled under the Export Control Order 2008 and so you may also need a licence which is valid under that legislation. This means that all licence applications relating to military goods and military technology will also need to be considered against the strategic export licensing criteria. A licence under the Regulations is unlikely to be granted if a licence is refused for the same activity under the Export Control Order 2008.

The way this will work in practice is that we will consider an application for a licence which relates to activities that are licensable under both the Regulations and the Export Control Order 2008 as an application for a licence under both pieces of legislation. This means that only a single licence application is required.

The application will be considered against the relevant licensing criteria. If a licence is granted it will be valid under both the Export Control Order 2008 and the Regulations.

Dual-use goods and technology

Please note that the export and trade in dual-use goods and technology are controlled under the Dual-Use Regulation. Authorisations under those regulations are granted by the Secretary of State for International Trade under licensing powers in the Export Control Order 2008.

This means that all licence applications relating to items which are controlled dual-use goods and technology (for instance certain missile-related or nuclear-related items) will also need to be considered against the strategic export licensing criteria.

As explained above in relation to military goods and technology, only a single licence application will be required in relation to dual-use goods and technology which falls within the scope of both the Regulations and the Dual-Use Regulation. If the application is compatible with both criteria, a licence will be granted which will be valid under the Dual-Use Regulation and the Export Control Order 2008 as well as the Regulations.

Overlap between trade sanctions and financial sanctions

If you import or export goods, you need to consider if financial sanctions apply to you. For instance, where your licensable trade activity may also be making funds or an economic resource available to, or for the benefit of, a designated person. You may need a licence from the Treasury as well as from the UK's Export Control Joint.

Transit control

Certain goods transiting the IOM are still regarded as being exported when they leave the country and are therefore subject to control. Article 17 of the Export Control Order 2008 includes a transit and transshipment exception meaning that in many situations a licence is not required. This exception does not apply to goods destined for Iran, meaning that a licence is required to transit goods through the IOM or to transship them in the IOM with a view to re-exportation to Iran.

3.5 Directions in respect of immigration sanctions

If you are subject to immigration sanctions the Home Office may direct, on a case by case basis, that the sanction does not apply in particular circumstances, such as for travel to, or through, the UK/IOM for a UN sponsored meeting.
