Introduction

1. On 26 January 2004 the EU adopted Council Regulation (EC) No. 131/2004/EC imposing certain restrictive measures against Sudan.

These measures included an arms embargo, which had immediate effect in the Isle of Man. However, the Regulation also imposed other restrictions that did not have immediate effect in the Island under the terms of its relationship with the EU.

2. On 6 July 2004 two statutory documents came into operation—
 - the European Communities (Sudan Sanctions) (Application) Order 2004, and
 - the Sudan Sanctions (Penalties and Licences) Regulations 2004 (“the Regulations”).

These gave effect in the Island to prohibitions on—

- the grant, sale, supply or transfer of “technical assistance” related to military activities directly or indirectly to any person, entity or body in Sudan; and
- the provision of financing or financial assistance related to military activities, including in particular grants, loans and export credit insurance for any sale, supply, transfer or export of arms or related material or “technical assistance” to any person, entity or body in Sudan.

The Order and 2004 Regulations has been superseded and the current Order dates from 2014 (see paragraph 5B below) and is supported by the Sudan Sanctions Regulations 2014 [SD 2014/0264].

3. The 2004 Regulations provided for both offences in breaching the applied Order in supplying said technical assistance or financing or financial assistance, and for licences to be granted by the Treasury permitting such assistance or financing.

4. For the purposes of the Order and 2004 Regulations, "Technical assistance" means any technical support related to repairs, development, manufacture, assembly, testing, maintenance, or any other technical service, and may take forms such as instruction, advice, training, transmission of working knowledge or skills or consulting services; and includes verbal forms of assistance.
5. On 9 June 2005 the Sudan (United Nations Measures) (Isle of Man) Order 2005 [SI 2005 No. 1463] ("the 2005 Order") came into operation, giving effect to UN Security Council Resolution 1591 of 2005. UN SCR 1591 remains in force.
- 5A. On 19 June 2012 the European Union (Sudan and South Sudan Sanctions) Order 2012 came into operation. This applied in Island law a number of EU Regulations that had previously been applied using earlier orders, both of which were revoked and replaced. Article 7 of the main EU sanctions instrument, Council Regulation (EC) No. 131/2004 was modified by the new Order so that, henceforth, changes made to the lists of persons and entities affected by the sanctions should have immediate effect in the Island without the need for any further application order.

However, due to a drafting error this Order had to be replaced. Therefore, on 4 July 2012 the European Union (Sudan and South Sudan Sanctions) (No. 2) Order 2012 revoked and replaced it.

The 2012 Order was subsequently revoked and replaced by the 2014 Order (see paragraph 5B below).

- 5B. The embargo on the supply of arms, military and paramilitary equipment and related financial and technical assistance remains in place. Council Regulation (EU) No 747/2014, which was applied in Island law by the European Union (Sudan Sanctions) Order 2014 ("the 2014 Order") [SD 2014/0263], remains in effect and also encompasses brokering services and financing relating to the goods. The Regulation does allow for authorising the supply of certain non-lethal, protective and de-mining equipment for UN, EU and African Union personnel (and associated financing, financial and technical assistance). It also contains the necessary provisions imposing an asset freeze etc on designated persons, entities and bodies.

When Regulation 747/2014 came into force, a separate Regulation dealt with restrictions involving South Sudan (see paragraph 8E below).

- 5C. On 17 January 2017, the US authorities revised the rules for licensing the export or re-export of certain items to Sudan and other transactions (including those involving US persons and oilfield services and oil and gas pipelines), with some blocked property and interests in property released. However, other sanctions remained in place, including asset freezes imposed under a 2006 Executive Order. The changes were said to be the result of sustained progress by the Government of Sudan on several fronts, including a marked reduction in offensive military activity, a pledge to maintain a cessation of hostilities in conflict areas in Sudan, steps toward improving humanitarian access throughout Sudan, and cooperation with the US on counterterrorism and addressing regional conflicts.

Financial sanctions

6. Any person listed under the 2014 Order would be subject to having their assets in the Island frozen, and making funds available to them would be an offence.
7. On 25 April 2006 the UN Security Council adopted Resolution 1672. This imposed an asset freeze and travel restrictions on 4 named individuals. The named individuals are listed at the address on page 2 of this Notice.
8. ...
- 8A. Persons and entities who are included on the list of those subject to sanctions in the Isle of Man because they are listed by the relevant Sanctions Committee of the United Nations. A person may petition the Committee for de-listing by contacting the relevant Focal Point for De-listing at the UN Headquarters in New York.
See <http://www.un.org/sc/committees/index.shtml>

Treasury powers

- 8BB. The Treasury can serve a written notice on anyone to whom the measures apply, requiring them to furnish the Treasury with any information in their possession or control, or produce any document in their possession or control, for the owner of those funds shall furnish the Treasury with any information in their possession or control, or produce any document in their possession or control, for the purpose of allowing the Treasury to ensure compliance with, or detect evasion of, the sanctions.

Failure to furnish such information or documents without reasonable excuse is an offence. Providing false information to the Treasury is also an offence, as is providing false information for the purposes of obtaining a licence (or failing to comply with any condition of the licence).

Separate South Sudan EU sanctions

- 8C. Following the outbreak of armed conflict in South Sudan in 2013, the Intergovernmental Authority on Development (IGAD) became proactive in facilitating peace talks between the parties involved. A ceasefire was signed in January 2014, but was reported to be regularly breached, accompanied by both human rights violations and a humanitarian crisis triggered by displaced persons.
- 8D. Following continued fighting in South Sudan, on 10 July 2014 the EU adopted restrictive measures against individuals held responsible for obstructing the IGAD-led peace process in South Sudan, breaching the ceasefire and committing human rights violations. It also confirmed that the arms embargo against South Sudan was to remain in place.
- 8E. Also on 10 July 2014, the EU separated out measures concerning South Sudan, integrating them into a new single act, Council Decision 2014/449/CFSP. This involved restrictions on admission into the EU, and the freezing of funds and economic resources, of those persons obstructing the peace process by means of acts of violence or breaches of ceasefire agreements, as well as persons responsible for serious human rights violations.

As a result, the pre-existing EU Regulation imposing restrictive measures in respect of Sudan and South Sudan, Council Regulation (EC) No 131/2004 was replaced by two different Regulations -

- Council Regulation (EU) No 748/2014 in respect of the new measures concerning South Sudan; and
- Council Regulation (EU) No 747/2014 in respect of measures concerning Sudan.

Regulation (EU) No 748/2014 involved -

- a prohibition on the provision of financial or technical assistance, or brokering services linked to the provision, manufacture, maintenance or use of arms and related materiel. The restrictions included application in respect of grants, loans, export credits and insurance and reinsurance;
- the freezing of funds and economic resources belonging to, owned, held or controlled by listed persons or entities.

The usual caveats included exemptions for the supply of certain equipment to UN or other peacekeepers etc, the ability to licence certain transaction types, and allowing of certain payments in defined circumstances.

- 8F. On 8 August 2014, the European Union (Sudan Sanctions) Order 2014 and Sudan Sanctions Regulations 2014 came into effect. This Order and Regulations applied in Island law Council Regulation (EU) N 747/2014.
- 8G. On 8 August 2014, the European Union (South Sudan Sanctions) Order 2014 and South Sudan Sanctions Regulations 2014 came into effect. This Order and Regulations applied in Island law Council Regulation (EU) No 748/2014.
- 8H. On 7 May 2015 the EU adopted Council Regulation (EU) No 2015/735, which repealed and replaced Regulation 748/2014. The new Regulations combined both the provisions of Regulation 748/2014 and those in UN Security Council Resolution 2206 (2015) which targets those responsible for, complicit in, or directly or indirectly engaged in, actions or policies that threaten the peace, security or stability of South Sudan. However, the new Regulation when adopted designated the same two persons previously designated pursuant by Regulation 748/2014.
- 8J. On 29 May 2015, the European Union (South Sudan Sanctions) Order 2015 [SD 2015/199] applied in Island law Council Regulation (EU) No 2015/735. At the same time, the South Sudan Sanctions Regulations 2015 [SD 2015/200], concerned with the implementation of Regulation 2015/735, provided for offences and penalties for breaching the provisions of the Regulation, for the granting of derogations and licences etc, and for the obtaining and sharing of information by the Treasury.
